NETSCO Opens Tampa Office

(CLEVELAND, Ohio) – NETSCO announced that it has opened a full-service office on Harbor Island in the Greater Tampa maritime district. The new office will provide naval architecture and marine engineering services to NETSCO’s expanding customer base in the Gulf region.

Over the past quarter century, NETSCO has established itself as a major player in marine engineering and design for large and small ships, tugs and barges.

“This is the next phase of our five-year strategic plan to expand our market reach,” said Richard Mueller, NETSCO president who made the announcement. “We feel that this location positions us strategically and geographically in the midst of the Gulf coast shipping industry from where we can be more responsive and more effective in handling our expanding assignments from firms in the region.”

The new Tampa office can be reached by calling 1.866.938.4043.

Founded in 1984, NETSCO is a marine engineering, naval architecture and design firm based in Cleveland, Ohio that furnishes a full spectrum of design, engineering and consulting services to the marine industry. NETSCO projects include the design, construction or modification of vessels of all types including large and small ships, tugs and barges. Its consulting services include special studies, surveys, project management, contract plans, specifications and technical guides.
